Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-12, 15, 16 and 19-23 are again rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Phillips (6,645,988 B2) in view of Shimizu et al. (6,328,994 B1), all of record, for reasons of record as set forth in the previous Office action dated September 23, 2008 at pages 2-3 as applied to claims 1-12, 15, 16 and 19-23.

Applicants' remarks regarding the prior art does not teach instant multi-layered pharmaceutical dosage form composition with a film forming water insoluble polymer are not persuasive since the prior art at Phillips (6,645,988 B2) teaches in column 14, lines 24-26 that formulations can contain excipients such as binder (for example, hydroxypropylmethylcellulose (HPMC) and other cellulosic materials which includes ethylcellulose). Clearly, the use of film forming water insoluble polymer is well-known in the art.

Applicants' remarks regarding the prior art does not teach the employment of a wax, glyceryl monostearate or castor oil are not persuasive since in Phillips at column 14, lines 29-31 states lubricating agents (for examples, stearates) can be employed with the multi-layer formulation.

Claims 1-12, 15, 16 and 19-23 are not allowed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. 1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 29 and 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Louie-Helm et al. (US 2003/0091630 A1) with a filing date October 25, 2001.

Louie-Helm et al. teach a dosage formulation comprising water-soluble or sparing soluble drugs such as proton pump inhibitors, especially omeprazole (page 8, section [0099]). Note page 11, section [0119] teaches the use of an antacid such as calcium carbonate instead of sodium bicarbonate in the formulation. Also note page 14, section [0138] teaches the dosage forms of the inventions may also be bilayer tablets and trilayer tablets.

Clearly, the cited reference teaches applicants' instant bilayered and trilayered pharmaceutical dosage form using a water-soluble or sparingly soluble drug such as a proton pump inhibitor with a film forming water insoluble polymer (see page 14, section [0137]) free of sodium bicarbonate in the absence of evidence to the contrary.

Claims 29 and 30 are not allowed.
